Re: REG 2011-02 Internet Communication Disclaimers

Dear Commissioners:

The League of Women Voters along with 12,903 members and supporters respectfully submits the following comments regarding FEC rulemaking on Internet Communication Disclaimers, Reg 2011-02.

The League believes in transparency and disclosure in our elections. We believe that every American has the right to know who is paying for online political ads whether it is organizations with ties to foreign governments or wealthy special interests at home. We must work to prevent meddling in our elections, and to ensure that Americans know the source of political messages.

In the 2016 election, 65 percent of Americans identified the internet or an online platform as their leading source of information. Yet our transparency rules—which still include references to telegrams and typewriters—don't require adequate disclaimers for online ads. The FEC should require online campaign ads to include disclaimers about who is paying for them—as is required for television and print advertisements.

The most important thing we can do to preserve the integrity of our electoral process is to increase transparency and let the sunlight shine in. As the agency tasked with making sure campaign finance rules are followed—the FEC should start working now to require the same level of transparency for online ads as we have for political ads on television. Transparency is the key to allowing voters to make their own decisions and will guard against the inevitable corruption that comes with secret money. Fair and clean elections, determined by the votes of American citizens, should be at the center of our democracy. Enhanced transparency is the most basic step toward protecting the role of voters and ensuring that they can make informed decisions.

We are joined by 12,903 League supporters and members urging you to move forward with updating transparency and disclaimer rules for online internet communications. They join us in telling the FEC to take swift action to put forward updated regulations that require online campaign ads to include disclaimers letting people know who is funding them, just like television and print ads.

The FEC should take swift action to put forward updated regulations that require online campaign ads to include disclaimers letting people know who is funding them, just like television and print ads.

Respectfully submitted by the 12,903 members and supporters of the League of Women Voters.
